The World's Want momentum reached its greatest force in the last half of the year, when, according to a count made by Messrs. Barrow, Wade, Ginnière & Co., chartered accountants, it printed 411,115 advertisements, against 388,847 printed by the New York Herald, leading it by 22,268 in the aggregate printed for the six months from July 1 to January 1.

No other newspaper ever before made such gains in a similar period by reaching so vast a total.

More than 75 per cent. of The World's Want advertisers give their business addresses, but, despite this, over 270,000 replies came to the box numbers in The World's own post-office.

At that time it was rumored that the couple was about to separate, but a reconciliation was arranged. Since then the couple is said to have quarrelled but never broken up. He has actually stated but each time their friends had brought about a new reconciliation.

The Count's political activities have caused comment. He is known to be of extreme tendencies, and has frequently been in trouble with the Republican government. He was elected to the Chamber of Deputies, but was thrown out of that body once on proof being submitted that he had purchased his election.
